QUEEN ELIZABETH has that "good to be home" look as she and the Duke of Edinburgh smile at cheering crowds from the Royal carriage bearing them to Buckingham Palace.

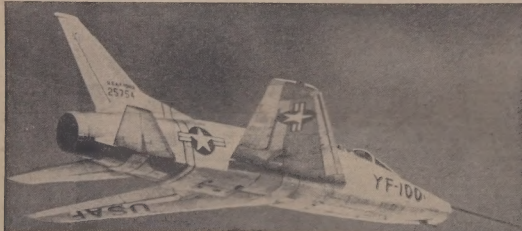

A HUGE THRONG lines the way as the Royal Family wend their way through the streets of London for the first time since the start of their 50,000-mile tour.

CHEMICAL FARM flourishes in Puerto Rico—Puerto Rico, with a population of 2,000,000 and with only 10 percent of its area classified as first-class farmland, may someday grow much of its now-imported food on chemical farms. Workers shown left, the concrete troughs with crowded aqueducts as first step in constructing an experimental soilless farm near San Juan. Troughs will be filled with gravel, and covered with a water solution of 28 chemicals necessary to plant growth. At right, gardeners spray seedlings, which will be transplanted to larger beds for growth and harvesting. One commercially successful farm is already in operation.

DREAM TRAIN—Looking like something out of the world, when it soon will be, this ancient turbo-type engine pulls its way out of the station at Anglen Les Bains, France. It is nearing the end of its journey from the 1870's to oblivion, and during all of its 64 years has shuttled commuters from Anglen to Montesson. Soon will replace the locomotive and its three double-deck passenger cars.

THE P-100 SUPER SABRE—A new speedy U.S. P-100 Sabre jet capable of flying about 1,800 m.p.h. eventually may replace the F-105 as the front line fighter for the USAF. The superonic Sabre is lighter and more powerful than the F-105 but requires a larger engine than the Canadian Canada jet engine that is being installed in the F-105. However, should the USAF decide to adopt the P-100 a Super Sabre engine may be developed for the role.

PLAYING "HOOKER"—Eugene College sophomore Alice Blais borrows her watergate alias playing "hooker" from chosen to enter a pipe-smoking contest held by students at Columbia University in New York City. Her water-cooled, Turkish-inspired smoking device failed to amuse out winning honors in competition with conventional "hookers".

FISHERMAN—This one didn't get away! And to back up his story when he tells it in the future, Harry Pederson of the Little Quatre district near Tongue, has pictures to prove he did catch a yard of fish. Recently, in company with a number of other fishermen at the Middle dam on the Snake River, Mr. Pederson latched onto this 34-inch pickerel, or cutthroat, one you have to call it. They were fishing through the ice and Mr. Pederson landed the nine-and-three-quarter-pound fish on an ordinary line. Mr. Pederson is shown here with the large fish. He is now holding the smallest one he caught on the same trip, for the sake of comparison.

BASEBALL'S HIGH-FLYING AND WOOLLY—No wonder Uncle Nester Dinkler, who is confused by his need to dunking high flies, but not "flying tigers". In this case, it's Detroit Tigers' Second Baseman Frank Bolling who's leaping through the air with the greatest of ease, chasing a wild throw from the plate during a game with the White Sox at Comiskey Park in Chicago. Tigers snatched the game "on the fly" 5-2. Nelson, "Eller" and "Albert" make life easy for Grandkeeper John Gery at Brecken Field, home of the Allentown, Pa., Cardinals. They keep the grass mowed, rain or shine, according to Gery.

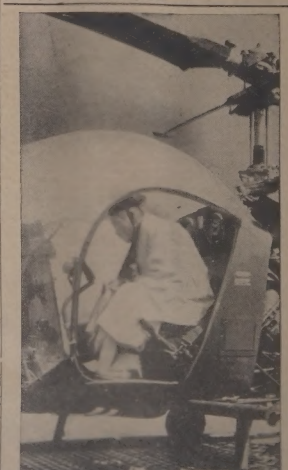

WHO WON?—This "Raceback Hat" fashioned of burnt leghorn straw beats the hat out of the eyes, all right, and also the painful sight of your home coming in last. "Home" New York military designer, used rope to form the summery creation.

"LIBERTY" MAIL—The Statue of Liberty, imprinted in purple, will be featured on the second of the new "unhappy" stamp series to be released. First-day covers of the 3-cent issue will be canceled at Albany, N.Y., June 24.

THE ROYAL NETHERLANDS ship's aircraft carrier Karel Doorman which recently paid a five-day visit to Montreal. The 15,000-ton ship is under the command of Capt. A. M. Van der Vliet. He is being accompanied by Rear-Admiral H. Schaper (left most), flag officer of the Royal Netherlands Naval Air Service and Deputy Chief of the Naval Staff for Air. The ship carries a complement of 100 officers and 1,100 men.

"WHAT MAKES IT FLY?"—An elderly Korean "Papa" examines the numerous instruments and controls as he sits in the cockpit of a helicopter during Armed Forces Day in Korea. Papson, was one of the many Koreans who were given the opportunity to inspect the flying windmills and other military equipment.

the ditch and over the fence into private property.

In brief, no cattle should ever be thrown out of any car at any time. Anyone who is willing to evade the law by drinking in a car should leave the empty bottle in the car. It is no excuse to have the car in the ditch.

There's good reason for outlawing the throwing of bottles. Broken glass is as sharp and dangerous as any knife. If the bottle falls and breaks on the pavement, cars coming behind could have a blowout and lives could be lost. If there's broken glass in the ditch, saddle horses could be (and have been) seriously injured, or children cut.

Broken glass is one of the curses of this age, and anyone who wilfully breaks glass anywhere ought to be punished. That goes for not only children who do it for fun, but adult bottle-throwers who do it with out a thought for the public.

The law and the police expect the public to take empty bottles home, not throw them out of car windows. — The Calgary Herald.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

Meeting The World Problem

Those who advocate the use of chemicals in the control of weeds are the first to agree that tried and tested cultural methods, as well as the use of clean seed and the prevention of the spread of weed seeds, are still basic to any successful weed control program. That is to say, weed-killing chemicals or "herbicides," available as they are, cannot be considered substitutes for good farming methods. Nor do selective chemicals like 2,4-D and MCP kill all weeds, which means that other methods must sometimes be employed.

During the past few years Canadian farmers generally have become very "weed conscious" and they have been quick to adopt the latest and most approved methods of combating weeds. But we are told that the number of grain farmers who use weed-killing chemicals is still far short of what it should be.

The fullest measures of weed control calls for, first, the following of approved cultural and other practices, and then the use, to the limit, of recommended chemicals. Only this is done on the greatest benefit to be derived from the materials which scientists have placed at our disposal and from the careful trials which have been carried out during the past few years by Experimental Farms and by various commercial concerns interested in this important field of agriculture.

CALGARY TO AMEND FOOD STORES LEGISLATION

City of Calgary is planning to amend its closing hours legislation, so that food stores may stay open Friday evenings until nine. In Vancouver, citizens will vote shortly on proposal that retail stores should return to a six-day week.

Five-day week, with stores compelled to close all day Wednesday, was voted by Vancouverites in 1947. Result has been to drive away retail business. More recently, suburban stores, open on Wednesday, have been attracting city customers. Labor unions which originally supported five-day week, are now supporting six-day one, so as to keep jobs for their members.

Question is why any of this legislation and counter legislation should be necessary. With maximum hours of store employees, like all others, established by provincial legislation, relative to hours of work to open and close as they please.

Russia has purchased 50,000 pounds of canned pork from Canada. This supply was purchased by the federal government during the foot and mouth disease epidemic. The price paid by Russia was not revealed.
